EDWARD KIDDER GRAHAM

Edward Kidder Graham, inspiring teacher, loved fellow alumnus, leader undaunted of men, has been called from his labors, and his deft hands, devoted to the realization of splendidly conceived ideals for the University and his native State, are now at rest.

With the three-fold task at which he wrought in the full light of perfect vision, every alumnus is familiar: To train the student mind and heart here beneath the campus oaks to be responsive to the true, the good, the beautiful in life and the fellowship of the Master Spirit; to multiply a hundred-fold every physical, mental, spiritual resource of the University in a ministry of service to the State; and, by so training the citizenship of the commonwealth and thereby securing its greater welfare, to win for Alma Mater still greater power and fame in the sisterhood of educational agencies of the nation.

With the success which he attained in these high undertakings every alumnus is also familiar. In expressions from the student body overwhelmed by the loss of their valiant commander, in letters from the alumni which filter back from camp and overseas, in the messages and beautiful language of flowers received from friend and taught at his death, there is the constant swelling refrain that he, with Alma Mater, was the giver of ideals by which men directed their lives and for which, if need be, gladly laid them down.

And similarly with the University's ministry to the State. In the four years of his leadership the student body grew from 900 to 1200, the Summer School attendance doubled, and through the Debating Union, correspondence courses, lectures, publications, and other agencies, the greater University was brought near in helpfulness to every one who looked to it for aid.

Likewise the story of the University's place of power within the sisterhood of American institutions. The directorship by President Graham of the Students' Army Training Corps of the South Atlantic States, participation by him in the affairs of the Council of National Defense, of the International Y. M. C. A. Committee, of the American University Union in Europe, together with expressions from the press and educational leaders of the nation concerning him and the institution over which he presided, bespeak the esteem in which the University was held, and bear testimony to the high destiny to which he had brought it and to the fact that it was functioning as a powerful agency keenly sensitive to the educational requirements of the present hour.

We do not attempt to measure here the loss the University or State sustains in that he who was so skilled has left his task to other hands. Nor do we speak of his radiant spirit or of those rare qualities of mind or heart by which he drew us to him as with cords of steel, nor voice our poignant sorrow at his going. Our anguish is too deep for words or tears. We receive it as a tender sacrament too full of hidden meaning to be understood, grateful that for awhile it was ours to walk in joyful fellowship with him along life's way and that the splendid task to which he called us one and all is yet to be brought to full accomplishment.

Upon us, student body, alumni, faculty, trustees, the responsibility of reaching this high "objective" set for Alma Mater falls. Today, and in the coming days of greater opportunity for still larger service to the youth, the State, the nation, it is our high privilege to "carry on."

OPINION AND COMMENT

Committees from the faculty and Trustees have been appointed to arrange a memorial service at some early date in honor of President Graham. It is also contemplated that the University will issue during the year a memorial volume containing a biographical sketch of President Graham, together with the memorial addresses and messages received by the University and members of his family at his death and tributes and editorial comment appearing in the State and national press. Copies of the publication will be placed in the leading colleges and libraries of the country.

In addition to these memorials, suggestions have been received by THE REVIEW from many sources looking toward two further significant memorials. Of these, the first is that the University should also publish a volume of President Graham's essays, addresses, and public papers with an appropriate introduction, in an attractive single volume. Mr. Graham's progressive constructive philosophy of life, and of education in particular, is such a valuable contribution that it should be made available for as wide a circle of readers as possible. This volume should also be placed in the libraries and colleges indicated above.

The second suggestion is that a students' building or students' union should be erected upon the campus through funds secured from the alumni and friends to be known as the Graham Union. It is the sort of memorial which would be in complete harmony with his ideals for student life, and would afford all of his friends the opportunity to express the esteem and affection in which they held him.

Both suggestions have been so acceptable to the University community and Trustees that committees have been appointed to consider the matter fully, and in the next issue of THE REVIEW it is expected that an outline of the plans of procedure will be given.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees held Thursday, October 31st, in Raleigh, Professor M. H. Stacy, Dean of the College of Liberal Arts, was appointed Chairman of the Faculty with power to perform the duties of the office of president of the University, made vacant by the death of President Graham.

Dean Stacy is a graduate of the University of the class of 1902 and spent a year in graduate study at Cornell University in 1905-06. He has been a member of the faculty since his graduation, having filled in succession the positions of instructor in Mathematics, associate professor of Civil Engineering, and professor of Civil Engineering. In 1913-14, during the absence of President Venable, in Europe, he was appointed acting dean of the College of Liberal Arts under Acting President Graham, and upon the election of President Graham in 1914, was appointed dean, which position he was holding at the time of President Graham's death.

By his appointment as Chairman of the Faculty at this time, the University is assured of the services of a leader thoroughly familiar with the work of the institution and who enjoys to the full the confidence and hearty co-operation of his colleagues, the student body, the alumni, and the people of the State in general.

The University has just passed through an epidemic easily the most dangerous it has ever experienced and which before its passing took four lives as its toll from the campus and two from the ranks of those who ministered to the stricken at the Infirmary out of a total of more than 300 cases, 18 of which were followed by pneumonia.

Throughout its duration physicians, nurses, medical students, stretcher-bearers, ambulance drivers, and all who participated in the vigils and ministrations, proved themselves spirits undaunted, ready to go over the top singing against the hidden foe.

We do not inscribe the names of Mrs. W. J. Hannah and Miss Bessie Roper in the Roll of Honor appearing elsewhere, but we place them at the top of a new fair page in Alma Mater's memory. The one, with mother love, gave her life that her son might live. The other, voluntarily leaving her sheltered station, with nothing at stake save fidelity to her calling and ideals of service, proved anew the paradox of life, that by losing it we gain it.

Through the purchase of the Stephen B. Weeks collection of North Caroliniana, a description of which appears on another page, the University has come into the possession of the most distinctive collection in that field to be found in the United States and a collection which, when compared with similar collections of material relating to other states, easily takes rank among the most notable.

THE WEEKS

In its entirety, the collection comprises some 10,000 titles, and is especially rich in biographical, historical, and legislative publications. It contains quite a number of extremely important early newspaper files, early maps and more than half of the one hundred titles published in North Carolina from the beginning of printing in the State (1749) to 1800. Four manuscript collections are included in the acquisition, and the very important manuscript bibliography of North Caroliniana which Dr. Weeks was compiling at the time of his death.

The acquisition of the collection has great significance for North Carolina. It will make possible the investigation of many subjects of State interest hitherto impossible, and will furnish material for an important series of studies in the social, economic, historical, and literary activities of the State. In view of the further facts that the history of North Carolina, Virginia, and South Carolina is closely related, that Tennessee is a daughter State, that North Carolina furnished many leaders in the development of the States immediately west and south, and that the University already has an unusually complete collection of literary and historical journals and publications of the old South and the Confederacy, the collection is at once extremely valuable as a source of material for the entire South.

The indulgence of the alumni is requested if we again present in these columns the matter of the support of THE REVIEW. Everyone is aware of the very greatly increased difficulties under which all publications are being issued at the present time, and of the especial difficulties under which alumni publications are being issued. THE REVIEW is no exception in this particular and it is in need of the hearty co-operation of every alumnus.

The request which it makes at this time is that every subscriber who has not sent in his renewal to date do so immediately and thereby save us the expense of fully $100 which it will cost us to send statements. There are also approximately 400 subscribers who are in arrears for the year 1917-18. It is very important that every subscription be brought up to date if we are to maintain the present standards of THE REVIEW. It is with regret that we have been forced to stop the subscriptions, with the last issue, of 400 alumni who were in arrears for two years or more. It is simply impossible to continue to carry these subscriptions, and, in addition, it is no longer legalized by the War Industries Board.

While we are urgent in this matter, we are also deeply appreciative of the very generous response which many alumni made in not only renewing their own subscriptions, but especially in making possible the sending of THE REVIEW to men in the service. As a result of contributions of this nature, more than 100 copies of this issue are going overseas, and will be tremendously welcomed by Carolina men to whom they are sent.

DR. H. W. CHASE APPOINTED ACTING DEAN

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Trustees in Raleigh on October 31, Dr. H. W. Chase, Professor of Psychology and member of the School of Education, was appointed acting dean of the College of Liberal Arts in the place of Dean Stacy, who at the same time was made chairman of the faculty of the University.

The Executive Committee also granted leave of absence to Dr. J. G. deR. Hamilton, head of the Department of History, to become regional director of the War Issues Course of the Students' Army Training Corps, and authorized Professor P. H. Daggett temporarily to assume the duties of regional director in President Graham's place.

The four S. A. T. C. companies of the University subscribed to a total of $25,000 in the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign. The campaign was carried on under the direction of Lieutenants M. T. McCowan, R. A. Roberts, and H. B. Limbaugh. The subscriptions of the non-S. A. T. ## EDWARD KIDDER GRAHAM

Edward Kidder Graham, seventh president of the University, died at his home in Chapel Hill at 8:15 Saturday, October 26th, after a brief illness of influenza followed by pneumonia. Although the serious nature of his condition was known by the University community, no one was prepared for the sudden ending of his brilliant career, which left the village, faculty, and student body overwhelmed with grief and brought the sense of keen personal loss to thousands of alumni and friends throughout the nation.

To sons of the University no telling of the story of his fruitful life of forty-two years is necessary save for the sake of refreshing the memory as to its many distinctive characteristics, and of making permanent the record of a life at once the inspiration of countless students and associates and an honor to the Alma Mater that sent him forth on his high mission.

Edward Kidder Graham, son of Archibald and Eliza Owen (Barry) Graham, was born in Charlotte on Oct. 11, 1876. At the age of seven he entered the city public schools, where he remained for ten years and from which he entered Carolina Military Institute. At the age of 18, he entered the University, graduating in 1898 as second man in his class.

College Career was Distinctive

His college career was well rounded and distinctive. The Dialectic Society selected him as an intersociety debater, and in 1898, he and W. J. Brogden, of the Philanthropic Society, against Georgia, won for Carolina the first of the long list of victories which has made the University's record in intercollegiate debate notable. Similarly the Societies and the Athletic Association placed him in the first position on the editorial boards of the Magazine and The Tar Heel. His fraternity, the S. A. E., followed him as leader, and the Order of the Gorgon's Head included him in its list of charter members. In class work he received the honor of the secretaryship of Alpha Theta Phi, a local scholarship society which later has been absorbed in the Phi Beta Kappa, and at commencement in 1898 he won the senior honor, the Mangum Medal.

Chose Teaching as Profession

Teaching was the choice of his life's work. He taught the year following his graduation in a private school in Charlotte. In September, 1899, he returned to the University, where he remained in continuous service with the exception of two years which he spent in graduate study at Columbia University from which he received the degree of M. A., in 1902. His career in the faculty has been: librarian, 1899-1900; instructor in English, 1900-1902; associate professor of English, 1902-1904; professor of English, 1904-1913; dean of the College of Liberal Arts, 1909-1913; acting president, 1913-1914; president since 1914.

Ideals Cherished for the University

Coming to the presidency of the University in 1914 upon the unanimous vote of the Board of Trustees and with the full confidence of the student body, faculty, alumni and State, President Graham devoted himself completely to the realization of the ideals which he cherished for his Alma Mater: That she should be the inspirer of her sons; that she should be the helpful servant of every citizen of North Carolina; that she should attain to a distinctive position of honor and power in the sisterhood of American universities.

The University Goes Forward

While the chapter of his achievement as the director of the University was scarcely begun, certain facts recorded in it stand out significantly. Student morale reached new altitudes under his inspirational leadership. Campus honor permeated more deeply every student activity, exhibiting itself at its best in the intercollegiate contests of 1916-17. And when the call to arms was sounded in May, 1917, the student body though despising war in and of itself, rushed to the front to die if need be for the ideals made clear and strong within the campus walls.

Similarly, the University's reach, its ministry to the State, was rapidly extended. In the four-year period the student body grew in numbers from 900 to 1200, the Summer School attendance from 500 to 1050, and through correspondence courses, lectures, the High School Debating Union, study centers, post graduate courses in medicine, newspaper and road institutes, the News Letter, and other publications, the University daily added to the list of those to whom it rendered service.

Together with this enlargement of service, came increased resources with which to carry it on. The General Assembly of 1915 increased the appropriation for maintenance from $95,000 to $115,000 and again in 1917 to $165,000. At the same time it provided a building fund of $100,000 annually for five years. Outside the General Assembly the desire to assist exhibited itself in additional ways. The Weil Lectureship in American Citizenship was established. The Hill Collection of North Caroliniana was placed on a permanent basis, the Alumni Loyalty Fund was begun, the Hewett Loan Fund was added to the list of other loan funds, and the Kenan bequest, yielding $75,000 annually, was received, making possible the strengthening of the faculty and the further equipment of the University for finer work.

A corresponding growth of influence was experienced by the University in its relations with other American colleges and Universities. Its scholarly journals, such as the Journal of the Elisha Mitchell Scientific Society, Studies in Philology, and The Sprunt Historical Monographs, gained in distinctive content. The High School Journal succeeded the High School Bulletin in wider service to secondary schools, while along with these the News Letter, the Extension Bulletins and Leaflets found their way into the libraries and colleges of the country and called forth frequent appreciation from the State and national press.

Touched Life at Many Points

During his connection with the University, President Graham participated in varied movements and was the recipient of many honors. He was a member of State and National Educational Associations; was president of the State Literary and Historical Association in 1911-12, and of the North Carolina Social Service Conference in 1916. He was frequently in demand as a speaker and contributor to educational and literary publications. Among his publications the most distinctive were his report to the Board of Trustees in 1916 in which he presented a broad educational program for North Carolina, and his inaugural address in which he set forth with a clarity and completeness that won wide acceptance, the function of the modern state university.

In 1914 the University of the South, at Sewanee, conferred upon him the honorary degree of D. C. L., while in the same year from Erskine College, and the following year from Wake Forest and Lafayette colleges, he received the degree of LL. D. In 1918 he was invited to deliver the baccalaureate address at Johns Hopkins, an engagement which he was unable to fill on account of illness. At the time of his death he was serving with distinguished ability as Regional Director of the Students' Army Training Corps of the South Atlantic States; as a member of the Educational Committee of the Council of National Defense; as a member of the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A., and as a trustee of the American University Union in Europe.

Married Miss Susan Williams Moses

On June 25, 1908, Mr. Graham was married to Miss Susan Williams Moses, of Raleigh, whose earlier career as a student in the University and beautiful home life in the community after her marriage is one of Chapel Hill's most precious memories. Her death occurred on December 22, 1916, she being survived by her husband and their only son, Edward Kidder Graham, Jr., now aged seven.

Funeral Conducted at Chapel Hill

The funeral of President Graham was held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, October 28th, interment being in the local cemetery. The services, in complete harmony with the life which had passed, were conducted at the grave by Dr. W. D. Moss, pastor of the Presbyterian church, of which President Graham was a life-long member. The affection and high esteem in which he was held were evidenced by the presence of hundreds of friends, former students and alumni within and without the State, by telegrams and messages to members of the family and the University faculty from every part of the country, and by a profusion of floral designs and autumn flowers of unimagined beauty.

The following active and honorary pallbearers were present: Honorary—Governor Thomas W. Bickett, Dr. J. Y. Joyner, Dr. Kemp P. Battle, Dr. F. P. Venable, Mayor W. S. Roberson, Professor M. C. S. Noble, Professor H. H. Williams, Professor W. D. Toy, Major William Cain, George Pickard, W. N. Everett; Active—Dr. W. D. McNider, R. D. W. Connor, Dean M. H. Stacy, Professor A. H. Patterson, Dr. L. R. Wilson, Dr. J. G. deR. Hamilton, Dr. Archibald Henderson, Charles T. Woollen.

In the funeral procession leading to the cemetery were the military guard of honor of 40 men, led by Captain C. C. Helmer, Commandant at the University; Trustees of the University, representatives of other colleges and schools, directors and commandants of the S. A. T. C. college units in the State, the Faculty of the University, the alumni and other visitors and the student battalion.

The following out-of-town members and connections of the family were present: Archibald Graham, Archibald Graham, Jr., Prof. Alexander Graham, of Charlotte; Miss Mary O. Graham and Mrs. T. W. Bickett, of Raleigh; Mrs. Tucker Brown, of Virginia; Miss Anna Graham and John Graham, of Warrenton; Lient. Frank Graham, of the U. S. Marines; Mrs. Josephus Daniels and Miss Mary Moses, of Washington, D. C.; Miss Carrie Moses of Raleigh; Misses Mildred and Elizabeth Moses, of Chapel Hill; Miss Sarah Kirby, of New York; Kemp D. Battle and F. E. Winslow, of Rocky Mount.

NO FORMAL CELEBRATION

University Day Went Uncelebrated on Account of Epidemic Situation

Contrary to all previous precedents, no celebration of the 125th anniversary of the University was held on October 12th. The classes did not form in front of the Alumni Building. The band was silent. Kodakers did not appear. The long column did not file past New West and lose itself in the vastness of Memorial (now Armory) Hall. The influenza epidemic upon the campus forbade public assemblages.

But in the hearts of Carolina men everywhere there was a renewal of devotion to the mother that sent them forth on their life tasks, as evidenced by the following letters and telegrams addressed to President Graham:

S. A. T. C. INDUCTION

Members of the Students' Army Training Corps Are Formally Inducted

"I pledge my allegiance to my flag and the republic for which it stands; one nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all." In these solemn words, repeated after President Graham at the flag pole on the campus, 650 University students were formally inducted in an impressive ceremony into the Students' Army Training Corps at noon, October first. At the same moment throughout the entire nation 150,000 representatives of 500 American colleges similarly dedicated themselves to the services of the government in its fight to make the world a safe place in which to live.

President Graham Speaks

The formal exercises were begun with an invocation by Rev. Euclid McWhorter, followed by the "Star Spangled Banner". In inducting the students into the Students' Army Training Corps President Graham spoke as follows:

"We are met today to re-assert in a spirit of high and solemn consecration our active faith in the principles of freedom, justice and equality, on which this nation was founded, and out of which it has grown in beauty and strength to its present power.

"We mean to say here today, as our fathers said—and as the wholesome heroic heart of men will always say—that there are certain rights of liberty and life inalienable for men everywhere; and that whenever the vital growth of these rights is menaced we will be quick to defend them as a heritage more precious than life itself.

"We are happy today as we accept the sword of defense of these ancient and eternal principles; and more for the opportunity of a wider and deeper interpretation of them, that makes our present cause the equal cause of the liberal brotherhood of all good men everywhere, and makes the cause of our country the common cause of a free mankind.

"It is fanciful to think that the heroes of freedom whose stories we have studied here—of Thermoplae, of Runnymede, of Bunker Hill and the rest—give to us, in the beauty of this quiet spot, their benediction, as we take from their hands the torch of the eternal task, and 'carry on' to a new and greater victory.

"The spirit of this campus, the spirit of our State and our country, the spirit of the world today, assure to us the continuing courage and complete devotion that will bring to a glorious fulfilment the noblest adventure that ever called to the aspiring spirit of youth."

President Wilson's Message Read

In the message from President Wilson, the students were appraised of the significance of the step which they had taken. President Wilson declared:

"You have ceased to be merely individuals, each seeking to perfect himself to win his own place in the world, and have become comrades in the common cause of making the world a better place to live in. You have joined yourselves with the entire manhood of the country and pledged as did your forefathers, your lives, your fortunes and your sacred honor to the freedom of humanity.

"The enterprise upon which you have embarked is a hazardous and difficult one. This is not a war of words; this is not a scholastic struggle. It is a war of ideals, yet fought with all the devices of science and with the power of machines. To succeed you must not only be inspired by the ideals for which this country stands, but you must also be masters of the technique with which the battle is fought. You must not only be thrilled with zeal for the common welfare, but you must also be masters of the weapons of today.

"There can be no doubt of the issue. The spirit that is revealed and the manner in which America has responded to the call is indomitable. I have no doubt that you, too, will use your utmost strength to maintain that spirit and to carry it forward to that victory that will certainly be ours."

Battalion Is Reviewed

Other messages were read from Peyton C. Marsh, chief of staff of the United States Army, and Benedict Crowell, acting secretary of war. At the conclusion of the exercises the Corps was reviewed from the steps of the Alumni Building by President Graham, Major Towner, Colonel Stevens, and members of his staff.

MILITARY WORK GOES FORWARD

In Spite of Influenza Epidemic Military Instruction Has Made Rapid Progress

The history of the Students' Army Training Corps at the University to date has been one of distinct progress and the military organization as a whole has made rapid headway in spite of the epidemic. The men have had a definite aim in view, that of becoming officers, and their fine co-operative spirit displayed in the classroom, on the drill field, and in the barracks all give visible evidence that the student-soldiers are decidedly in earnest.

Mastering Fundamentals

The S. A. T. C. unit is composed of four companies of approximately 160 men each, and when arrayed in battalion formation presents a formidable front. Each company is under the direct charge of two lieutenants. Thus far, besides mastering the fundamental principles, the students have engaged in close order drill in squad, platoon, and company formations for the most part. Interesting games, setting up exercises and frequent hikes, which are staged regularly, have served not only to break the monotony of the drill field but also to put the men in excellent physical condition.

Personnel of Military Faculty

Lieut.-Col. G. W. S. Stevens, Commandant in Charge since the early summer, has been relieved by the War Department, and Capt. Chas. C. Helmer, a native of Iowa, a graduate of his State university, and a veteran of the Spanish-American War, is now in charge of the Post. Other members of the military faculty include Capt. J. Stuart Allen, Director of Military Tactics at the University last year; Adjutant J. V. Whitfield, also of last year's military faculty, and Lieutenants R. F. Boyd, C. P. Rounds, D. G. Lambert, Raymond Martin, Andrew Bell, H. B. Limbaugh, John H. Winslow, C. W. Robinson, P. M. Allison, R. A. Roberts, C. A. Joyce, and Sergeant J. S. Stump. Major C. Towner, Military Inspector for the South Atlantic States, and four lieutenants assisting, were until recently making the University headquarters while inspecting S. A. T. C. units in this district. S. A. T. C. headquarters for the district are now located in Raleigh.

Marine and Navy Units Added

The members of Marine and Navy sections of the S. A. T. C. are now quartered in Barracks 7, the Battle-Vance-Pettigrew buildings. First Lieut. R. F. Boyd, of the Marine Corps, assisted by Sergeant J. S. Stump, is in charge. The two sections are combined into one company and drill together. Ensigns W. J. Skelton and F. W. Rice and assistants, of the Navy Mobilization Station at Raleigh, make frequent trips to the Hill to inspect the Naval Unit.

Captain Allen Directs Non S. A. T. C.'s

The Non-S. A. T. C. students, that is, those taking drill but ineligible for the S. A. T. C. either on account of age or physical disabilities, although permitted to room out in town, are under practically the same rules and regulations as the S. A. T. C. men. Captain Allen, assisted by Adjutant Whitfield, Professor J. M. Booker, and student Captain S. C. Ogburn, is in charge of the non-S. A. T. C. company. They are using the old class field for drill grounds. Of the 135 men in the company, 40 or 50 per cent have had previous military experience. The company will use the old system of trenches of last year. Several men awaiting induction into the service are also taking drill with the Non-S. A. T. C. group.

Where Men Are Quartered

The dormitories now go under the name of barracks with the headquarters of each company in each of the four barracks. The companies have been assigned to the barracks as follows: Co. A, Barracks 2, Old East; Co. B, Barracks 3, South; Co. C, Barracks 6, South; Co. D, Barracks 7, Battle-Vance-Pettigrew. Four or more men are quartered in each room. Inspection of quarters is made at least once each day. All students belonging to the S. A. T. C. are quartered in the barracks and are fed at Swain Hall, now called the Mess Hall—all other students room and get their meals off the campus.

Men Under Strict Quarantine

With the campus under quarantine since about

CAPTAIN HELMER (CENTER BOTTOM ROW) AND MEMBERS OF MILITARY STAFF

October first the soldier boys have seen little liberty. On Saturday afternoons part of the men not having demerits are given leaves to go off the campus, not out of town, however.

Regular Camp Schedule Followed

The daily routine of the campus virtually corresponds to that of a government camp and keeps the men busy from 6 A. M. when awakened by reveille until 10 P. M. when taps are sounded. Breakfast at 6:30 is followed by physical exercises. Class work begins at 8:00 and continues through 12:15. Following the dinner hour, 12:30 to 1:30, class work is again resumed, except on Saturdays when military instruction is given. The period from 2:35 to 3:35 alternates between academic work and military instruction, the time being divided equally between the two. Retreat is sounded at 6:00; study call at 7:30, and taps at 10:00.

During the epidemic the students doing hospital duty, driving ambulance trucks, carrying stretchers, each at their turn, rendered invaluable assistance to their stricken comrades. The work of the second year medical students, whose timely assistance was largely instrumental in checking the ravages of the disease, also deserves commendation.

Military Police Active

The streets of Chapel Hill are now patrolled by military police whose duty it is to see that only students who have passes go off the campus. Each student serves in this capacity in turn. Such scenes present unfamiliar sights to alumni returning to the Hill. The task of feeding the University battalion in Swain Hall in a few minutes is easily administered by the kitchen police. Each student also serves in this capacity in turn.

Post Exchange Established

Among other things tending to give the University the atmosphere of a real army camp is the establishment of a Post Exchange in what was formerly the dining hall of the University Inn, where everything for the soldier will be kept and sold at the lowest possible price. The profits will be divided among the companies.

Y. M. C. A. Provides Entertainment

The student life and activities committee of the University is co-operating with the Army "Y" to provide entertainment for the students. Plans are underway to show war films, to give public lectures and readings by faculty members, to assist in stimulating interest in company singing which has been started by the company captains, and to increase the facilities of the Y. M. C. A., particularly its floor space.

The custom of asking the soldiers to Sunday dinners, which is followed in cities where regular army camps are located, will be followed here, the faculty and townspeople co-operating in that direction.

The co-eds are also taking a large part in the Y. M. C. A. program of entertaining the soldiers.

CAMP TAYLOR GRADUATES

Among the Carolina men graduating from the Officers School at Camp Taylor in October were A. B. Cummings, Winston-Salem; P. V. McPherson, Liberty; T. H. Norwood, Goldsboro; B. C. Parker, Monroe; F. E. Quinn, Warsaw; R. L. Roland, Burnsville.

EXTENSION COURSES PLANNED

In spite of the internal revolution incident to the establishment of an S. A. T. C. at the University, the Bureau of Extension is preparing to carry on its state-wide educational activities as vigorously as ever.

The policy announced last year of extending the arm of the University to as many communities as possible through lecture courses designed to instruct the public on the vital problems of the present day is meeting with an enthusiastic welcome in the state, and arrangements have already been made in Winston-Salem, High Point, Raleigh, and Salisbury for the formation of community centers to co-operate with the University in its program of popular education.

A somewhat different application of the extension idea has been adopted in Greensboro, where the State Normal School has arranged with the University for a series of eighteen lectures dealing with the historical and economic causes of the war and governments, philosophies and ideals of the opposing nations. These lectures will probably be presented as a regular part of the program of instruction at the Normal School, and the Syllabus provided for the War Issues Course at the University will be made use of.

Lectures on similar topics will be given before various organizations which are following the program of study drawn up by the Extension Department for the use of Women's Clubs. The clubs at Goldsboro, New Bern, and Kinston have already made application for University assistance and lecturers will be sent to these communities as soon as the influenza situation admits it. A new feature in this year's plan is the establishment of a series of lectures especially designed for use in the public schools, on the activities of the American Army and Navy, illustrated by lantern slides published by the Committee on Public Information.

CAROLINA WINS FROM WAKE FOREST

Football, which was dropped from the athletic schedule last year, has been reinstated, and Marvin L. Ritch, of Charlotte, a former Carolina and Georgetown star, playing half and full back at the University in 1910 and center in 1911 and center and emergency guard tackle at Georgetown in 1912, where he received his LL. B. degree in 1914, is coaching the team. Since 1914 Coach Ritch has been practicing law in Charlotte.

Between 40 and 50 men are contesting for positions on the squad in the daily practices. While there are no letter men to serve as a nucleus, many men of last year's freshman team are back. The new material on hand shows up well.

The opening game with Wake Forest on November 2nd, resulting in a 13 to 7 victory for Carolina, showed the squad to be in good condition after only two weeks practice.

In the game with Camp Greene on Nov. 9 Carolina won 52-13.

Following are the most promising players thus far showing up: Brown, Nichols, McQueen, Carter, Kernodl, Widenhouse, Powell, Pharr, Lowe, Gant, McNeely, Herty, Fearington, Sims, Holt, Gibson, Bristol, White, Harden, Eaton, and Montcastle.

ENROLLMENT REACHES 1128

The University enrollment for this year (including students in the Summer School studying for degrees) had totaled 1128 on November 5th, which by way of comparison shows more students in attendance than were registered during the whole of last year. Recent war orders considerably modifying the educational entrance requirements for membership in the S. A. T. C. are expected to bring in many new students. The above figures show an increase of 82 over last year's enrollment and a decrease of 122 as compared to the attendance during the 1916-17 session.

The Medical School enrollment of 53 is only four below last year's, 24 of these being first year and 29 second year men.

The Pharmacy School has an enrollment of 24, an increase of two over 1917-18.

The Law School has only 11 members, six of these being women students. This drop of 21 from last year's class is accounted for by the fact that a great number of men who would ordinarily take the regular law course are taking military law instead.

The Co-ed roll shows a decided increase over preceding years. In comparison with 24 of last year the co-eds number 32 and are represented in every phase of college work.

The Science, Engineering, Chemical and kindred subjects are being studied this year more than ever before, due to the imperative government need of highly trained men.

DEBATING UNION TO DISCUSS MILITARY TRAINING

Resolved, That the Government of the United States should adopt a policy requiring one year of military training of all able-bodied men before they reach the age of 21, is the query selected for the High School Debating Union this year.

War conditions make it necessary to modify somewhat the method of procedure in recent years. The change is characterized by two distinct features. In the first place, there will be two preliminaries held throughout the State previous to the contest at Chapel Hill. In the second place, the semi-final contests at the University will be conducted as debates, i. e., an affirmative team meeting a negative team with a chance for rebuttal. In this way it is thought the spirit of debate can be kept all through the contests.

Dr. L. A. Williams succeeds Mr. E. R. Rankin, now in service, as Secretary of the Debating Union.

FRATERNITY INITIATIONS

The following men have been initiated into the fraternities:

Elsa Shamburger, of Biscoe—Kappa Alpha.

Haywood Edmundson, of Raleigh; Luther Purrington, Jr., of Scotland Neck; Rufus Hunter, of Raleigh; J. M. Horner, Jr., of Asheville; and Thomas J. Wilson, Jr., 3rd, of Chapel Hill—Zeta Psi.

Robbins Lowe, of Winston-Salem; M. C. S. Noble, Jr., of Chapel Hill; Will Ruffin, of Louisburg; Charles Ives, of New Bern; and Henry Canady—Kappa Sigma.

Maury Crawley, of Louisburg—Phi Delta Theta.
 Henry Cooper, of Henderson—Delta Kappa Epsilon.

Fred Moore, of Webster—Pi Kappa Phi.

Howard Patterson, of Chapel Hill; William Justice, of Richmond; and Hervey Evans, of Laurinburg—Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Johnnie Bonner, of Raleigh; Reid Russell, of Asheville; and David Duncan, of Beaufort—Sigma Chi.

Richard G. Coker, of Hartsville, S. C.—Pi Kappa Alpha.

Larry James, of Greenville—Sigma Nu.

William A. Pressly, Jr., of Rock Hill, S. C., and Waverly Hester, of Tryon—Alpha Tau Omega.

ORGANIZATIONS TO CONTINUE ON WAR-TIME BASIS

Practically all organizations, such as the literary societies, fraternities, and clubs, will continue this year on a war-time basis, according to present plans, although their activities will necessarily be considerably curtailed.

The literary societies have held meetings, installed new officers, initiated new members and displayed noticeable zest and enthusiasm in beginning the work of the new year. At regular intervals during the year the speech making program will be set aside and lighter forms of entertainment introduced. This innovation is being made because of the hard routine work and strict discipline experienced by the students.

The Magazine will be dropped by the societies this year. This step is being taken after a careful survey of the situation, and its publication will be resumed just as early as conditions permit.

WOMEN STUDENTS ORGANIZE

Thirty-two women are registered in the University this year, which surpasses all former enrollments. Last year the twenty-four co-eds organized themselves into a Woman's Association, with Mrs. Thomas Lingle as special advisor. The organization will continue this year with the following officers: Miss Elizabeth Lay, of Raleigh, president; Miss Louisa Reed, of Gastonia, vice-president; Miss Willard Goforth, of Lenoir, secretary; and Miss Nell Pickard, of Chapel Hill, treasurer.

Last year the Association not only served the social purpose of its members but demonstrated its true worth as a part of the University by co-operating with many other organizations on the campus and in the State. Women are now taking an active part in practically all student activities.

This year the Association plans for a wider field of service. Among other things the co-eds are serving the Y. M. C. A. canteen, the Red Cross, and planning for entertainment for the soldiers.

PROF. BRANSON CALLED TO FRANCE

Prof. E. C. Branson, of the department of Rural Economics and Sociology, has been invited to go at once to France as Agricultural Specialist in Rural Life, for the Army Overseas Educational Commission, which operates under General Pershing and the National War Work Council.

The Commission is composed of Dr. John Erskine, of Columbia University, Superintendent Frank E. Spalding, of the Cleveland, O., Schools, Dr. Algernon Coleman, of the University of Chicago, and Dr. K. L. Butterfield, President of the Massachusetts Agricultural College. Dr. George D. Strayer, of Teachers College, Columbia University, is the Home Director with headquarters at 347 Madison Ave., N. Y. City.

This Commission has in charge the educational end of demobilization, rehabilitation, and restoration in the war zone from the North Sea to the Swiss border.

Professor Branson has been granted a leave of absence for one year and plans to sail December 2nd.

J. E. LEAR ADDED TO FACULTY

Mr. J. E. Lear has accepted the position of assistant professor of Electrical Engineering and is devoting his time to the Gas Engines course. Mr. Lear was assistant designing engineer with the General Electric Company in West Lynn, Mass., before coming to the University. He has had previous experience as Professor in the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas and at Norwich University in Vermont.

MARINES MOVED TO GEORGIA TECH

In accordance with orders received, Lieutenant Boyd, U. S. M. C., transferred the squad of eight marines from the University to Georgia Tech on November 13.

The Marine organization at Carolina has been unable to get its full quota of men, due to inability of S. A. T. C. men to secure transfers and the movement of the unit to another school is made for this reason.

VIRGINIA GAME PENDING

Graduate Manager Woollen, of the Athletic Association, has left the Saturday before and after Thanksgiving open for a game with Virginia, but so far no game has been definitely scheduled. Watch the daily press for further announcements.

D. T. Wilson, 1887, is with the Chase School of Applied Science, Cleveland, Ohio.

THE UNIVERSITY IN LETTERS

BY WAY OF TRIBUTE

The following excerpts from the innumerable letters and messages from educators and friends to members of President Graham's family and the faculty, and editorials from the press, evidence the very great affection and esteem in which President Graham was held throughout the State and Nation:

Resolutions of the Faculty

The Faculty of the University of North Carolina has with sorrow recorded in its Journal the death of President Edward Kidder Graham.

In his brief term of service he created in the University vital forces which extended beyond the limits of the campus to every section of the State, and which made his career as an educator a brilliant epoch in the history of the University.

His ideal in life was service, first for his University and his State, and then, when the opportunity arose, for the nation. In his progress towards this ideal he was guided by a clearness of vision which revealed to him the splendid possibilities of life devoted to high and noble aims.

It was clearly understood by all who came within the sphere of his influence that he thought only in the terms of the high, of the good, of the great. And yet, conscious as he must have been of the shortcomings of humanity, he never failed to show his kindly interest and a compelling sympathy which gained for him the ready co-operation of all.

In the present crisis of the nation he recognized at once the duty and attitude of the higher institutions of learning. It was his own theme of service for the world. Quietly and without ostentation he laid his plans for our university. But the wisdom of his measures was soon widely recognized, and the Government of the United States sought his aid and counsel in training the young men of the colleges for the service of their country.

In the hour of need the Faculty of the University has lost a leader and a friend. In its own sorrow it offers to those upon whom the burden of grief bears most heavily its respectful sympathy, with the prayer that Heaven may grant them its tenderest blessings.—F. P. Venable, Wm. Cain, H. H. Williams, M. C. S. Noble, W. D. Toy.

I have heard with the deepest sorrow of the death of Dr. Graham. I counted him among my valued personal friends not only, but I know how great a service he was rendering the University and the State and how sadly he will be missed. By gift and character alike he was qualified to play a distinguished part and was playing it to the admiration of all who knew him. With the warmest sympathy, Cordially and sincerely yours—Woodrow Wilson.

I loved him like a brother. I think he was the most useful man in North Carolina and we could possibly spare any man in the state rather than him. We have nobody to fill his place. He was a man of clear vision, had the confidence of the entire state and was truly representative of the best spirit of North Carolina. I have known all presidents of the State University since 1875. He was the youngest man elected to the presidency of that great institution and bore not only a state but a national reputation as an educator, counselor and great citizen. I deeply deplore his death, which means an irreparable loss to the educational system of my state and to the country as a whole.—Josephus Daniels.

Word of the death of President Graham distresses me beyond words. President Graham was a man of great distinction and talent. He was one of the South's most foremost educators. I have known him intimately for a long time and highly valued his personal friendship. One of the greatest of the young educators produced by Dixie has passed and I am sincerely grieved. His death is a lamentable loss not only to the University and the State which he served but to the entire country's educational system.—Newton D. Baker.

There was no man in the State that we could so ill afford to have lost as Dr. Graham. There is no man in the State whose place it would be so hard to fill. The whole State feels that it has suffered an irreparable loss.—T. W. Bickett.

Owing to absence from Washington, have just heard President's Graham death. Please convey my condolence to his family. His loss is a most severe blow to the student army and to the cause of education.—President Maclaurin, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The death of President Graham deeply grieves and shocks me. He was my pupil, friend and honored colleague. The faculty and students of the University of Virginia share with me this grief and join with me in sending to the University and the State of North Carolina their expressions of sympathy and sorrow for the loss of this great public servant in the very prime of his national promise.—Edwin A. Alderman.

I have always felt a great joy in the distinguished career and far reaching service of your gifted son, but it so fell out that I had no opportunity for intimate personal acquaintance with him till last year when I was a guest in his home for some days. I then saw for myself the high, fine nature and Christian manhood which so commanded the respect and affection that I had often heard expressed by others.—W. W. Moore, President Union Theological Seminary.

The University of Florida, including Board of Control, present faculty, and students, wishes to extend deepest sympathy to Trustees, faculty, students, and bereaved family of President Graham whose death they now mourn. The nation, the South in particular, loses a vigorous scholar, a constructive educational statesman, a leader whom we can ill spare in a time like this. May heavens blessings abide with you and give you consolation.—A. A. Murphee, President.

I have learned with keenest regret of the great loss that has come to your institution in the death of its distinguished son and most worthy President. Dr. Graham was not only an inspiring teacher and a skillful administrator but was in a very real sense an educational leader who enjoyed the confidence and respect of the profession and the affection of his constituency. His influence was felt far beyond the borders of his native State, and Randolph-Macon Woman's College mourns with you in his loss.—William A. Webb, President.

Am greatly shocked at death of President Graham. His passing is a great loss to education in South and nation. Please convey my sincere sympathy to his family and your faculty.—Brown Ayres, President of the University of Tennessee.

Please convey to faculty of the University and family the profound sympathy of the president and faculty of Sweetbriar College in the loss of their distinguished President. Dr. Graham's wife was our first professor of Latin; we have rejoiced in his successes and are shocked at his sudden death.—Emilie W. McVea, President of Sweetbriar College.

My heart is sorrowing with the University in its grief over the untimely death of President Graham. "For Lycidas is dead, dead ere his prime, young Lycidas, and hath not left his peer."—George T. Winston.

I am inexpressibly shocked. The State and nation have lost a constructive leader, wise in council, forceful in action, farsighted in vision.—C. Alphonso Smith.

The news this morning of the death of President E. K. Graham stirs the heart of every loyal alumnus of the University of North Carolina. I cannot refrain from expressing to you, the impression Dr. Graham made upon me.

He seemed to me to be always living upon the heights, and his vision was correspondingly broad, deep and far-sighted. He looked to God and then outward upon the great commonwealth, whose citizenship he was to train for the highest service. At his inauguration, the initial outline he gave of his purpose and plans stamps him as one of the wisest and worthiest leaders of his generation. Scarcely had they begun to take shape before the world-war thrust itself across their realization, and seeing that nothing so potent for Democracy could have free development in a world dominated by autocratic rule, he dedicated himself to the insistent call to win a victory that should clear the way for the accomplishment not only of his own but of all like noble ends. May the heritage of purpose and achievement he has bequeathed fall into hands capable of completing the task to which he sacrificed himself every moment of his life.—R. R. Pell, President Converse College.

No man in the South or the Nation better knew the functions of a State University. He believed with all his soul in the Physical Sciences—in the conquest of Nature for the relief of man's estate in the earth; and just as strongly in the Social Sciences—in the new humanities whose field is the conquest of Human Nature for the common weal. He treasured the classics of every race and all ages as priceless memorials of the noblest in man, forged in the fires of spirit by the choicest souls among men. And true to the genius of his Scotch forebears, he held The Book to be the classic of classics—the final source of human strength in the everlasting struggle of the Best with the Beast in the affairs of men and the destinies of nations.

A greater, nobler University and a greater, nobler State—these were the soul, the very essence of the being of Edward Kidder Graham. As this institution and this State move forward in the years to come they will forever glimpse far in the fore the beckoning hand of this gentle, sweet spirit, this lover of his kind, this prophet, priest, and king among his fellows. His life brief as it was as men count time is a lasting, everlasting benediction to the State and the Nation.—E. C. Branson in the News Letter.

I have never known a man who saw more keenly than he into the limitations of others. I have never known one who saw more quickly beyond those limitations or could more easily take the will for the deed. He never drew painful attention to the bad symptom. So whenever or wherever you found him he was in tune with you. You never got a setback from Dr. Graham. He always gave you the invitation out into the open territory. He could take your toy to pieces—which did look like a setback—but he helped you to put it together again in a better way. And it was always the fine spirit that was suffering from a let down of nerve force. He was never in on himself—never in a mood. He was always for you when you came to him and you could use him to the utmost.—W. D. Moss in the Tar Heel.

THE UNIVERSITY ACQUIRES THE WEEKS COLLECTION OF NORTH CAROLINIANA

As indicated in press dispatches of early September, the University has secured through purchase the Stephen B. Weeks Collection of North Caroliniana comprising 10,000 books, pamphlets, bound and unbound periodicals, bound and unbound newspapers, maps, reports of State officers and State institutions, etc.

The collector, the late Dr. Stephen B. Weeks, '86, Historian of the U. S. Bureau of Education since 1911, began the collection in February, thirty-four years ago. In addition to the natural instinct of a collector, he brought to bear upon the work of forming the collection a discriminating judgment acquired in indexing the 30-volume set of North Carolina Colonial and State Records, in editing, with Capt. S. A. Ashe and C. L. Van Noppen, Ashe's History of North Carolina and the eight-volume Biographical History of North Carolina, in preparing and bringing to partial completion in manuscript a two-volume bibliography of North Caroliniana, and in supplying the publishers of the American Catalogue a complete check list of North Carolina Public Documents.

To characterize the collection without going into particulars is difficult; however, its outstanding features are emphasized in the following classes of publications: 1. Association Books—by which is meant books that are of interest because they bear the autograph of prominent early North Carolinians. 2. Incunabula—or cradle books, by which is meant the first books published in North Carolina from 1749 to 1800. 3. Public Documents—originating with North Carolina legislative and other State departments. 4. Civil War and Confederate Imprints. 5. Newspapers and Magazines. 6. Biography and Genealogy. 7. General History, Town and County History, and Maps. 8. Poetry and Novels, Sermons, Miscellaneous Literature.

Although there are several other fairly extensive collections of North Caroliniana, the most important of them being in the State Historical Library of Wisconsin, the Weeks Collection has long been recognized as the most distinctive in the country, and as such it will at once take rank with the Draper Collection of Middle Western History in the State Library of Wisconsin and the Bancroft Collection of Western and Mexican History in the Library of the University of California.

No conflict of interests on the part of North Carolina institutions is involved in the purchase, as the collection in the State Library is largely a bound newspaper collection, and the North Carolina Historical Commission has concerned itself chiefly with the collection of manuscripts, letters, and curios.

The collection is being placed in the North Carolina Room of the Library and on the second floor of the main stack and is being catalogued and made available as rapidly as possible. Through the interest of Mr. John Sprunt Hill, of Durham, a full time cataloguer has been employed to prosecute this work and within the present year it is probable that the greater part of the collection will be made available.

Drs. L. A. Williams and J. H. Johnston, of the School of Education (Dr. Johnston was recently killed in France) are the authors of a 94-page booklet entitled "A Study of the Winston-Salem Schools." The study comprises the findings of Drs. Williams and Johnston in a survey made by them early in 1917 of the city schools of Winston-Salem at the request of the superintendent of the city schools. The headings of the chapters indicate the general scope of the publication, the first of its kind to be issued in North Carolina: I. Historical; II. Organization; III. The School Plant; IV. The Pupils; V. The Teaching Staff and Supervisory Officers; VI. Finances; VII. High Lights. The surveyors go minutely into every phase of the work of the city school system and offer specific recommendations, the adoption of which, according to the statement of Superintendent Latham, appearing in the introduction, has resulted in great good to the schools. This report is a part of a larger survey conducted by the University. Other reports yet to be made are, "The Social and Economic Survey," by Professor E. C. Branson, and "The Industrial Survey of the City," by Dr. C. L. Raper.

The September number of the Journal of the Elisha Mitchell Scientific Society has recently been mailed. Its contents are as follows: Luminescence of Zircons, by F. P. Venable; The Sun's Eclipse June 8, 1918; Question, by John F. Lanneau; Alternation and Parthenogenesis in Padina, by James J. Wolfe; The American Pitcher-Plants, by Roland M. Harper; Extension of the Range of Prunus Umbellata Into North Carolina, by J. S. Hohnes; Additions to the Arborescent Flora of North Carolina, by W. W. Ashe; Report of an Investigation as to the Cause of Death of Chicks in Shell in Artificial Incubation, by H. B. Arbuckle; Brief Comparison of the Perpetological Faunas of North Carolina and Virginia, by C. S. Brimley; Eliminations from and Additions to the North Carolina List of Reptiles and Amphibians, by C. S. Brimley; A Visit to Smith Island, by W. C. Coker. The number is illustrated with sixteen plates.

In the drive for the Fourth Liberty Loan, the National Publicity Committee used an article by Dr. Archibald Henderson, entitled "Democracy and Liberty. A Straight Talk on the Fourth Liberty Loan." This article was written by Dr. Henderson at the request of Mr. John Price Jones, Press Bureau, Liberty Loan Committee, New York City.

NOTED LECTURERS COMING

In view of the nature of the work and of the class of students here this year, it is necessary to think of Chapel Hill as an army post and the campus as a University camp. Accordingly, the lectures scheduled by the University lecture committee have been planned as a part of the recreational activities of the men, and are designed to present to them in an interesting, clear and attractive way topics of vital interest to them in view of their own activities, and of the world-situation.

Lectures will be given from time to time during the year on the great problems of today or the future—the history and function of the navy, in the past and during the Great War of today; military problems viewed in a large way, especially in connection with the conduct, strategy and tactics of the present struggle; surveys of the immediate future, after the war problems, industrial, political, social and economic.

There will also be given lectures and readings of a popular nature, recreative and entertaining in character, along lines of literary and dramatic interpretation. From time to time, also, it is expected that lectures with slides will be given or motion picture shows, having to do with phases of America's preparation and participation in the war.

Among the lecturers for the year will be Professor Koch, of the University, who will give a series of lectures and interpretative readings, chiefly of Shakespeare; a member of the French High Commission, who will speak on "France and the Great War"; Professor William Starr Myers, of Princeton University, who will speak on "After the War—What?" The British and the French Commissions on Education; and others, concerning which subsequent announcements will be made.

THE CRUEL GOVERNMENT

When the Government takes over things the fur flies. But who would ever have expected to live to see all the American colleges and universities opening with the classics abandoned, the secret societies abolished, athletics reduced to recreation and the students made to study?

It all seems too sensible to be true.—The Independent.

He never aspired to any State office, though eminently qualified, and the Marshalship was the only Federal position he ever held. Years ago he held some county offices. On March 2, 1905, he was married to Miss Elizabeth Gurley, three children being born to this union. He took his law course at the University, following graduation with honors at Guilford College. He was a life-long Republican and was often the standard hearer of his party. As a public servant he was postmaster, a member of the school board, alderman, and finally mayor. He was on the Republican ticket for solicitorship of this district at the time of his death.
